

DID YOU KNOW?

The effects of climate change will happen faster and more drastically in alpine environments.

This is called “alpine amplification.”

Alpine environments are extremely sensitive to weather patterns. This means that creatures inhabiting them, like mountain goats, will be disproportionately impacted by climate change.

@goatalliance